

DEAR GUARDIAN,

We have discussed matters related to the storage and disposal of medicines in class. Related to this topic, I have assigned the pupils homework: checking the medicine cabinet at home. The purpose is that the pupils, together with their guardian, check the date and storage temperature, if any, marked on medicine packages.

If you find expired or incorrectly stored medicines, you should take them to the pharmacy for disposal. You can check with your pharmacy how they wish to have the medicines returned. The general instruction is, however, that products containing iodine and mercury thermometers must be returned separate from other medicines. We also recommend removing any labels containing personal information from the packages.

Best regards,
